

DARE-DEVIL DRIVER RALPH DE PALMA AGAIN WINS FAMOUS VANDERBILT CUP RACE

Ralph De Palma in a Mercedes car winning the Vanderbilt cup race at Santa Monica, Cal. The picture was snapped just as De Palma crossed the finishing line and Flagman Warner is shown in the foreground signaling the end of the race. This is the second time this famous driver has won this event, having carried away the same honor last year. De Palma made the 294 miles in 3 hours 51 minutes and 41 seconds. Although his average speed was 75 miles an hour, still De Palma didn't break any speed record. He did, however, break an endurance record by running the entire race without a stop. His time on the straightaway was as high as 90 miles an hour, while on the Nevada Curve he slowed down to 30. The entire purse for the event was $7,500, of which De Palma won $3,000. The lower picture of De Palma was taken just after he won the race. Barney Oldfield ran a close second, finishing 200 yards behind the famous Italian driver. His share of the purse was $2,000. The remainder was divided between the other winners, Carlson, who finished third, got $1,500, while Cooper, in fourth place, took $1,000. Of the 15 cars that started only five finished. The race was phenomenal for number of accidents and lack of fatalities. Eddie Pullen, who led the race, went 14 laps at the appalling rate of 85 miles per hour and then on the fatal Nevada avenue curve blew out a tire and ran into the fence, wrecking his car. But he miraculously escaped injury.
